

GLOBE HOTEL STANLEY, FALKLAND ISLANDS

In the late 19th century there were four small hotels in Stanley, the capital of the Falkland Islands (in the islands the capital is known as Stanley rather than Port Stanley). One of these hotels, the Globe Hotel (also called Globe Tavern) on John Street, issued these two checks, a 3d and a 4d. The Globe still exists but is now a public house rather than a hotel; it is a long single story building with a red corrugated iron roof and is situated opposite the public jetty.

That these checks are from the Falklands is proven by one turning up in the islands in 1992 which was loaned to the museum (although not known 10 years later), and another specimen is in the hands of a Falkland Islander in Australia, together with some George V Falkland bank notes. One senior citizen (in the early 1990's) recalled his uncle had worked at the Globe in the late 1920's/early 1930's and that he had remembered the tokens, which he believed were issued by the licensee at the time whose name was Henderson. The reverse die of the 3^d would indicate they were made in England around 1890-1910 or later, probably by S A Daniell of Lion Works, Edward St., Birmingham. The value of 3^d and 4^d at that time would have bought a pint of beer and the two values typically indicated beer of different qualities and price.

EDITOR'S COMMENTS

In an effort to get caught up, I emailed Bob Lyall. He had sent me an article on the Globe Hotel tokens years ago. Every time I asked about it, he told me it was not ready. This time, he was gracious enough to make a couple changes and updates, and you will find it on the front page of this issue. Of course, in my haste, I forgot to put his by-line on it. In the interest of saving a small tree, I am choosing to not reprint the front page. Thanks, Bob. Really appreciate your help.

And I just got an email from Bob wanting to add a bit to the article: "The valuation given in the Rulau book "Latin American Tokens" for these two tokens is just as ridiculous as those valuations given to the West Indian tokens, where an error by a factor of 10 fold or even more is often the case.

I will be going back to Mass. to visit with mom in mid-August. It is my hope to get the August issue in the mail before I go. Then, I will be pretty much caught up, until I fall behind again.

We are still working on the picnic shelter at the Georgeson Botanical Garden. It is mostly a two person job. We hope to have one more work party and have the retaining wall done in August. Then we can put down the gravel pad and move in the tables and fire pit.

FEEDBACK

In the May issue we offered for sale Mt. McKinley Park and "Gold Discovery" medals. Russ Perkins was stationed at Clear AFS and was involved with the production of these and offers the following information.

Mt. McKinley Park: Silver, mintage 1,000. Original issue price was $15.

Gold Discovery:

Silver with gold mintage 1,500. Original issue price $20. Copper mintage 3,000. Original issue price $5 with gold, $2 without gold. The gold came from Manley Hot Springs and assayed at 87.5 fine.

Lee Poleske corrects us in that mileage is measured from Seward. Ernie's Joint, Mile 101 Seward Highway would be near Bird Creek, or about 28 miles south of Anchorage.

So what were the checks used for? It has not proved possible to identify just how the checks were used, no one traced can recall their use nor can anything be determined from the owner of the hotel. However, it is very likely we can make a good guess as to their method of use. Other pub checks with licensee's names on them were issued in Britain with the same reverse die in the mid 1890's. In January 1891 the Globe Hotel and store was owned by Charles Williams, together with a number of other properties. Carlos Guillermo (or Guilharmo) was listed as a native of "The Western Isles" (the Azores), became a naturalized British Subject (and presumably Anglicized his name at the same time) on 8th February 1868. He married Catherine Carey in 1871 when he is described as the licensee of the Esperanza Hotel, Stanley (now perhaps the Pig & Whistle). He seems to have given up the license of the Globe Hotel/Tavern by April 1898 when the licensee was a John von Harten who also had a license for billiards at the hotel. John von Harten still held the license in 1905. In 1907 A. Gilchrist is listed as receiving licences for tobacco, for being the publican and having a billiards table for the Globe Hotel.

Many British pubs had a billiard table and used a token system to pay for its use, so it would seem the billiard table was the reason for the tokens. Typically, intending players of billiards would purchase a token, which was good for a pint or half pint of beer, thus ensuring the licensee payment for his game facilities. Although, as there were two different values, this might indicate two different uses or the price of beer had risen to 4^D, necessitating the 4^D token.

Another possible use may have been for "wet rent" payments, where the secretary of a society which used the hotel's meeting room facilities, would issue each member of the society with a check/token, paid for from society funds. These could then be spent over the bar for refreshments, so that the landlord was assured of the sale of at least one drink for each member attending. There was certainly a friendly society in Stanley - Joseph Seth Jones recorded in his diary that he joined the Stanley Benefit Club in July 1867, paying an entrance fee of 5/- and a monthly subscription of 1/6d. No mention is made in his diary of whether meetings were held in a hotel, but it is virtually certain that a friendly society existed in Stanley c1900.

One does not see many things from Big Lake. This white on blue pin back button is quite early for such items. Wonder if the event is still going one?

PAPER POTPOURRI

ANCHORAGE: Advertising note. Alaska Treasure Shop, Bill and Muriel Sain. Headquarters of... Robert Mayokok, Eskimo artist and writer. Black on crisp antiqued paper, 175mm by 80mm.

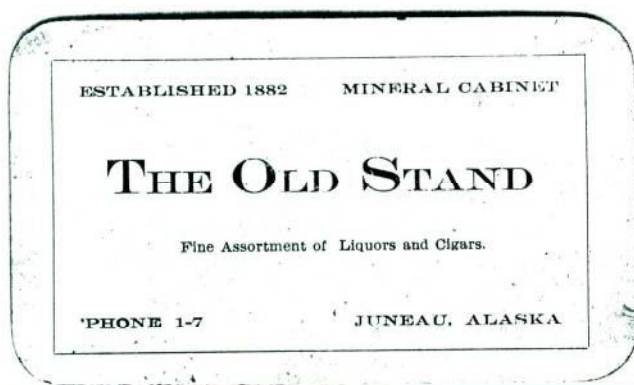

GEOCACHING COIN

This odd piece was on eBay and was described as having a 2 inch diameter, whatever that means on a rectangle. The reverse, not illustrated, is a “3d depiction of an American eagle.”

JUNEAU: Going through the files, I found this amusing business card. Wish I had found it last month! Unfortunately, it does not carry the business owner's name. Shown reduced, actual size 99mm by 59mm.

ANCHORAGE: Corbin's Sterling Service, Fireweed and Seward Hwy. Over $100 in trade value. Coupons good from March 1959 to January 1960. Problem is, only one coupon states what it is good for. The others state "Check at the station to see what Specials are offered each month." Cover is dark brown on light golden brown. Coupons are green on white. 136mm by 67mm.

WORLD'S RAREST BANKNOTES

This is a series from (presumably) the Franklin Mint we had not seen before. Or at least my failing memory does not recall them. It is in the format of their "mini medals."

This is a 1 Rouble from the Russian American Company. Struck in sterling silver, it weighs 2.4 grams. Size was not given in the description. The illustration is probably larger than actual size.

Union Fish Company is mentioned as one of the companies fishing for cod in the March/April 2006 issue. It is interesting to note the station names. Bristol Bay Packing Co. is Bristol Bay B-1.

Double the Rations—

when you put the zest of this SEA FOOD into any meal

Clams and Bacon

Drain and dry 1 can Pioneer Minced Sea Clams. Roll 1 tablespoon clams in a slice of bacon and fasten with a tooth pick. Cook in a hot frying pan until bacon is crisp. Serve on toast.

Ask your grocer for our free recipes.

You'll eat twice as much, because everything will taste twice as good.

The very aroma of a steaming dish of minced sea clams puts a new relish into the entire meal. And you can eat your fill—for clams are as digestible as they are appetizing.

But you'll want to make sure of getting clams that retain all the delicate freshness and flavor of this sea food.

And that's easy. Just ask your grocer for Pioneer Brand. Then you know you are getting genuine razor clams, dug at their best from the clean white sands of the North Pacific, and packed by an exclusive process that has been in the Haferty family since 1894 when it was originated.

It's a good idea to keep several tins on hand. Then you can always have hearty appetites at your table.

But see that you get Pioneer—the only "Minced Sea Clams."
